PRO BONO PUBLICO

We cannot stand still—remain where we are. We must advance or slack back, and the ground lost is almost always harder to regain than it would have been to hold it in the first place.

Not only every where else, but in this county, towns as well as cities are moving up in improvements, private and public. Villages are acquiring up to date appliances which this, the county seat, the third town in the county, appears to an extent indifferent about. This state of affairs is out of the question any longer, if we expect to remain on the map. True, no advancement but that interferes with the present interest of some one. When the new takes the place of the old, the owner of the old is damaged, but it has been so and always will be and to avoid discommoding a few, too often the many are denied the right to progress. We must keep step with the times or in justice to all interests not strictly personal and selfish, we should step out of the way with our back number affairs or be gently side-tracked.

Are you provided with a hammer, large or small and ready to knock what ever bobs up which will advance us? Are you pessimistic and obstructive to even that extent? If so, why?

Salisbury Scribbings

Oscar Hairgrow, one of our best colored carpenters, died at his home in south Salisbury Tuesday of a complication of diseases, aged about 50 years. Sometime ago, while at work on a house at Dalton, deceased received a fall that seriously injured him and from which he never fully recovered. He leaves a wife, son and daughter who have the sympathy of friends and neighbors.

Guy Cox a former citizen of this place, but now of Carroll county, was here on a business this week. He received a kick from a horse a few days ago, that laid him up for some time.

Some excitement occurred here Tuesday on account of sudden departure of a young man named Griffith, who failed to liquidate some debts before his departure.

Ray Morehead is still in quarantine, but getting along nicely and as no new cases have developed the variola scare is about over.

There was a large crowd in town Saturday and candidates were busy as bees. The pump
